Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1: Step c, the recitation of " the water temperature" does not have antecedent basis.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over KR 93-17678 in view of KR 1994-0002526.

Kr 93-17678 discloses a method for preparing dried alpha-rice. The method comprises the (a) washing milled rice to remove impurities adhered to the surface of the milled rice; (b) soaking the washed rice in water for 2-4 hours to evenly absorb water, followed by dehydrating it in air for 30 minutes to 2 hours; (c) pouring the dehydrated rice into boiling water of 98-100 °C, followed by heating the same to maintain the water temperature of 98-100 °C for 10-15 minutes; (d) quickly cooling the boiled rice by showering cool water; and (e) placing the rice in a vacuum drying chamber while maintaining the internal temperature at 80-90°C, and vacuum drying at an internal pressure of 1 torr or lower to maintain water content of the rice at 1-8wt% .

Kr 93-17678 discloses a method substantially as claimed. Kr 93-17678 does not disclose washing in a cooling tank, the continuous rice cooker and the dehydration time as in claim 2.

Kr 1994-0002526 discloses a method of preparing dried boil rice. The patent teaches washing the rice after cooling the rice.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to wash the boiled rice after cooling to remove any starch or sticky layer present on the rice after cooking. Such washing step is known in the art as shown by Kr 1994-0002526. It would have been obvious to use any known cooker to carry out the cooking step; this can readily be determined by one skilled in the art. It would have been obvious to vary the time of dehydrating depending on the degree of dryness desired. As to the alpha-starch content, it is obvious the starch content in Kr 93-17678 is the same as claimed because the cooking time and temperature are within the range as claimed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Nakamura et al disclose a rice cooking method.
